Chief, Division of Nephrology and Hypertension, Weill Cornell Medicine

The Division of Nephrology and Hypertension in the Weill Department of Medicine at Weill Cornell Medicine (WCM)-NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital (NYPH) is seeking a distinguished academic nephrologist to serve as its next Chief. The division is nationally recognized for providing state-of-the-art nephrology and transplant care, conducting pioneering research, maintaining prestigious fellowship training programs, and demonstrating a steadfast commitment to improving the health of the community we serve. WCM is the medical school of Cornell University. Faculty members have clinical appointments at NYPH, one of the largest academic medical centers in the nation and one of New York City's top hospitals.

The next Chief will be charged with growing a newly integrated, full-service Division as part of a new chapter in its history; resources will be commensurate to the vision of the next Chief. Responsibilities will include:

- Oversee all clinical, academic, research, training, and administrative aspects of the division throughout WCM, including NYP-Lower Manhattan Hospital, NYP-Brooklyn Methodist Hospital and NYP-Queens Hospital.
- Provide strategic leadership to establish, articulate and execute the Division's long-term goals in alignment with the broader goals of the Department and WCM.
- Facilitate growth of academic and research programs to enhance the division's reputation
- Optimize education of fellows and internal medicine residents.
- Build a clinical program characterized by patient-centered excellence, operational efficiency, accessibility, collegiality and collaboration with other specialties.
- Responsibly steward Division, Department and WCM resources while aligning Division financial goals with the priorities of the Department and WCM.
- Collaborate with and empower the Division Administrator and other Division leaders.
- Actively engage in meetings with the Chair, Division Chief meetings, Department conferences, and ad hoc committees, as requested
- Cultivate collaborative relationships with other Divisions, Departments, WCM and NYPH.
- Model excellence in all missions while leading with integrity, honesty and professionalism.

Medical Education Requirements:

- Candidates must maintain an MD or comparable international medical degree
- Certification by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM) in Nephrology

Academic Appointment Requirements:

- National reputation as a physician-scientist with a strong track record of clinical excellence, academic scholarship, mentorship, and teaching.
- At least 8-10 years of experience and achievement of academic rank of Associate Professor or Professor of Medicine.
- Competitive candidates must have strong leadership and interpersonal skills.

Clinical Appointment Requirements:

- Appointment as an Attending Physician of NYPH will be contingent upon approval of the Weill Cornell Medicine academic appointment.

Professional Licenses and Certifications:

- A valid New York State medical license, DEA license, board certification, and all applicable certification and/or credentialling specific to nephrology; must meet the qualifications to enroll and participate in all third-party payer insurance plan credentialing.

Competencies:

- Must remain compliant with all WCM and NYPH initiatives.

Compensation and Benefits:

- WCM offers highly competitive benefits, including 403B, CME, malpractice coverage, including tail coverage, LTD and life insurance, and tuition reimbursement for qualified employees and dependents.
- Base Salary range $290,000 - $332,000 commensurate with rank and experience.

WCM provides the above salary ranges in compliance with the New York City law on Salary Transparency in Job Advertisements. The salaries listed are for full-time employment, not including bonuses, administrative supplement, clinical incentive compensation, or benefits. Actual salaries depend on a variety of factors including but not limited to experience, internal equity, specialty, training, and hospital/community needs. The salary ranges for New York City-based roles represent WCM's good faith and reasonable estimate of possible compensation at the time of posting.

To apply, please submit an up-to-date curriculum vitae and 1-2 page (maximum) letter of interest to Elizabeth Werffeli at els7021@med.cornell.edu.
